

Acknowledgements

This dissertation has greatly benefited from the help, interest and support of many people from many parts of the world. My sincere apologies are due to anyone who in the following has been inadvertently omitted.

First of all, I am indebted to Fernando Bragança Gil, founding director of the Museum of Science of the University of Lisbon and my supervisor during the initial months of this research. Without his guidance into the world of museums and our inspiring conversations over a time span of almost seven years, this research would not have been possible. For her generous and constant encouragement during many years, I am most grateful to Luisa Corte-Real. I am also indebted to Fernando Costa Parente, former Pro-Rector for Museums at the University of Lisbon, for opening my eyes to the serious challenges that university museums and collections face today.

I could not have wished better supervisors, Dominique Ferriot and Steven de Clercq, and my special gratitude goes to both. Their contributions to the genesis and development of this research, both in terms of intellectual insight and comments and in terms of inspiration and encouragement, were essential.

For having accepted to become members of the doctoral jury, as well as for their interest and support throughout the research, I wish to thank André Guillerme, Pietro Corsi, and Michel Van Praët. A special 'thank you' is due to André Guillerme for supporting the submission of this dissertation in English.

For allowing me the time to develop this research, I am grateful to José Manuel Barata-Moura, Rector of the University of Lisbon. I thank Fernanda Madalena Costa, Director of the Museum of Science of the University of Lisbon for her encouragement. I am also grateful to the Gulbenkian Foundation, Lisbon, particularly Manuel da Costa Cabral, for providing indispensable funding allowing me to visit university museums and collections all over Europe. I also acknowledge the support of the Portuguese Foundation for Science and Technology, for travel grants enabling visits to conferences in Australia and the United States.

Nothing could have been achieved without the generosity and interest of the 300 knowledgeable and dedicated people whom I have interviewed during the past four years and to whom I symbolically dedicate this dissertation. I felt privileged in meeting each of them. All are acknowledged individually in the next section.

I am also grateful to UMAC, the international committee of ICOM for University Museums and Collections, particularly to its first chair, Peter Stanbury (2001-2004), who accompanied and contributed to this research with interest, and to UMAC's first executive board: Steven de Clercq, Sue-Anne Wallace and Peny Theologi-Gouti. UMAC conferences provided great opportunities to share views and experiences and to learn from university museum professionals from all over the world.

As the research involved specialised knowledge from multiple disciplines, as well as many countries, many people guided me through the specificities of different collections and countries, provided contacts or commented on parts of the text. I am particularly grateful to Silke Ackermann, João Alves, Kate Arnold-Foster, Tristram Besterman, Olivia C. Bina, Paolo Brenni, Cristina Cilli, Pietro Corsi, Eszter Fontana, Giacomo Giacobini, Kees Hazevoet, Aldona Jonaitis, Paul Lambers, Michele Lanzinger, Reet Mägi, Mara Miniati, Ing-Marie Munktell, Bernice Murphy, David Pantalony, Alan Saville, Sébastien Soubiran, Peter Stanbury, Liba Taub, Peter Tirrell, Michel Van Praët, Sue-Anne Wallace, Cornelia Weber, and Patrice Wegener.

Other institutions and organisations that must be mentioned are the Council of Europe, the European University Association (EUA), the International Association of Universities (IAU/UNESCO), the International Council of Museums (ICOM), Universeum, the Instituto Nacional de Estatística (INE, Portugal), the Associazione Nazionale Musei Scientifici (ANMS), the Association of Swedish Higher Education (SUHF), the Flemish Interuniversity Council (Belgium), the American Association of Museums (AAM), the Conférence des Recteurs des Universités Suisses (CRUS), the Conferenza dei Rettori delle Università Italiane (CRUI), and the Conferência de Reitores das Universidades Portuguesas (CRUP), particularly its former President, Virgílio Meira Soares.

For inspiring conversations, insightful comments and documentation, my gratitude goes to Adriana Mortara Almeida, Warren D. Allmon, Robert Anderson, Margarida Ascenso, Andrea Bandelli, Antonio Garcia Belmar, Jim Bennett, Marco Beretta, Ian Carradice, Luisa Cerdeira, Penny Collet, António Firmino da Costa, Tito Chan, Sally Duensing, Henk Egberts, Diana Gasparon, Henrique Coutinho Gouveia, David Gray, E. Geoffrey Hancock, Alf Hatton, David Hill, Julian Holland, Eilean Hooper-Greenhill, Frans Keiser, Melanie Kelly, Lyndel King, Viviana Lanzarini, Michèle Loneux, Arthur MacGregor, Paul Marty, Stella Mason, Alison Morrison-Low, Mikko Myllykoski, Nathalie Nyst, Wendy Pollock, Helen Rees, Graça Santa-Bárbara, Sébastien Soubiran, Walter Staveloz, Carolyn Sutterfield, Evelyn Silber, Sofia Talas, the late Pedro Viegas, David S. Wilcove, Roland Wittje, and Pino Zappalà.

For generous help of various sorts, I wish to thank Artur Soares Alves, Lucília Alvoeiro, Marité Amrani, Alfonso D'Angelo, Georges Asch, Diane Azzolini, Corry Bakels, Nicole de Barbuat, Fernando Barriga, Giancarlo Beltrame, Francisco Bethencourt, Sjur Bergan, David Besson, Piotr Bienkowski, Rosa Boano, Soraya Boudia, Frédérique Bourat, Anne Boulton, Patrick Boylan, Thomas Bremer, Saskia Brown, Joséphine Bruyat, Lucilla Burn, Clara Frayão Camacho, Rosanna Caramiello, Anne-Laure Carré, Catherine Casley, Rita Caré, Frederico Gama Carvalho, Henri Chamoux, Jeremy Coote, Nuno Crato, Bob Creeze, Pedro Sousa Dias, Hugues Dreyssé, James Edmonson, Sandy Edwards, Nabil El-Hagggar, José d'Encarnação, Mário Estevens, Margarida Lima de Faria, Graham Farmelo, João Fernandes, Jean-Marc Fick, Valeria Fossa, Luís Gil, Paolo Galluzzi, Carla Garbarino, Paula Gualdrapa, Sabine Gerber, Samantha van Gerbig, Nicole Gesché-Koning, Margarida Coutinho Gouveia, Josh Gorman, Marcus Granato, Philippe Guillet, Nathalie Huchette, Seppo Huhtinen, Bruno Jacomy, Sabine Joseph-Cruyssaert, Simon J. Knell, Stans Kofman, Urmas Köljalg, Jan Krikken, Victor Kuzevanov, Michel Laval, Serge Lochot, Martha Marandino, John Martinson, Emma Rabino Massa, Michèle Mathieu, Kathy Maxwell, Ireneia Melo, Rachel Mellor, Peter van Mensch, Jacques Michaux, Joana Sousa Monteiro, Ulrich Moritz, Alison Morrison-Low, Wim Mulder, Christiane Naffah, Osvaldo Negra, the late João Parente, Gilberto Pereira, Virginia Perkins, Sirkku Pihlman, Graça Ramalhinho, Charlotte E. van Rappard-Bonn, Anne Rasmussen, Ramana Rayaprolu, Éloise Régnier, Michaël Renvillard, Olivier Rétif, Marike van Roon, Lola Schaetzel, Nathalie Schindler, Elina Screen, Nicole Seeck, Sandra Sequeira, Luís Serrão, José Manuel Machado da Silva, Maurício da Silva, Raquel Henriques da Silva, Ana Isabel Simões, Tiziana Tafani, Gerard Thijsse, Francesc Uribe, Dominick Verschelde, François Vescia, Mireille Vial, Rik Vos, Andrea Wagener, Philippe Weigel, Kristel Wijshof, and Michael Worton.

Josette Fróis translated the PhD proposal into French, as well as one chapter of this dissertation submitted to the Conservatoire National des Arts et Métiers in 2002.

I am grateful to my colleagues at the Museum of Science of the University of Lisbon for their encouragement and support. For their patient support in matters regarding computers, I am indebted to Alexandre Cabral, João Pequeno and Martin Stricker. I wish to express my gratitude to the librarians at the Centre de Documentation du Musée des Arts et Métiers, particularly Isabelle Taillebourg, Ben Taplin and Joanna Bowring at the British Museum

Central Library, and Fernanda Balau at the Library of the Museum of Science of the University of Lisbon.

I also wish to encourage the doctoral students currently developing research in university museums and collections and I am grateful for what I have learned from regular correspondence with them: Helen Rawson and Zenobia R. Kozak at the University of St. Andrews, Barbara Rothermel and Wahiza Abdul Wahid at the University of Leicester, Placide Mumbembele at the University of Cairo, Thijs van Excel at the University of Amsterdam, and Yaqoub S. Al-Busaidi at the University of Wales Institute, Cardiff.

Finally, my warmest thanks are due to my family and closest friends for their support and particularly to my dear Keesje for his incessant encouragement and meticulous editing.
